- Read the following passage and then answer the questions.

A dictionary is a very important tool for anyone who is learning a new language. With a good dictionary you can:

- look up the meaning of a word you see or hear.
- check the spelling of a word.
- find the synonym or antonym of a word.
- look up the collocations of a word.
- check the part of speech of a word.
- find out how to say a word.
- find out about the origin of a word.
- find examples of the use of a word in natural language.

There are many different types of useful dictionaries that you can use. Electronic dictionaries are the best choice for students. They can be found in several forms, including software which is installed on tablets or PCs, and mobile apps. Most of them contain native-language equivalents and explanations, as well as definitions and example sentences in English. They can pronounce the English word to you, and they are - easy to carry around. A good monolingual dictionary is recommended for students who already have an intermediate level of English. You can also use bilingual dictionaries; but don't trust them completely. A bilingual dictionary can be useful for quickly trying to understand meaning, but it may not provide you with the exact meanings. Some online dictionaries are suitable for everyday use and language learning, so surf the Net for the ones you like the most.

Not all dictionaries work the same. Take the time to learn how to use yours. Read the introduction. It is surprising how many students have never read the introduction to the dictionaries they use. Learn how to recognize syllables, pronunciation, meaning, examples, and any other information that your dictionary uses.

Finding words quickly is a skill that you need to practice. Ask someone to write down 5 words and see how long it takes you to find them. Use the guide words at the top of each dictionary page; and keep practicing until you can find any word within 10 seconds.

Dictionaries are certainly great resources, but it doesn't mean you should run to the dictionary every time you hear or read a word which you don't know. Try to guess the meaning of a word by the other words around it. Keep reading or listening, as maybe there will be an explanation coming. If you still don't understand, look up the word or make notes to look up the word later.
